

STAY-C Award Winning Commodity Strategy

AN ACTIVE COMMODITY STRATEGY MAINLY BASED ON INNOVATIVE MATHEMATICAL ALGORITHMS.

- The STAY-C Strategy is a long only actively managed futures strategy, which aims to participate in the performance of the global commodities markets.
- The strategy reflects the performance of selected commodities futures and takes advantage of the characteristic features of commodities such as the low correlation between them.

- The trading strategy is systematic (rule-based) and thus combines objectivity with the expertise of the fund manager.
- The strategy provides a smart approach to invest into commodities.

RISK REDUCTION

- Commodities often show a low or even negative correlation with other asset classes. They can therefore reduce the overall portfolio risk.
- Portfolio diversification makes commodity investments important for institutional investors.

Investment Approach

The investment replicates the performance of the commodity index through derivatives and allows investors to indirectly participate in the performance of the international commodity and futures markets. The index regularly selects from a universe of 24 commodities out of 4 different sectors. The sectors include energy, base and precious metals, as well as soft foods. At the investor's request, agricultural commodities can be removed.

THE STRATEGY IS BASED ON 2 MAIN PILLARS: SELECT AND PROTECT.

STAY-C invests in individual commodities as soon as their price patterns meet the selection criteria (which include robust momentum) and disinvests in periods of weakness either partially or entirely.

Live Track Records Since 2007

SINCE LAUNCH, THE STAY-C INDEX HAS BEATEN THE BENCHMARK ALMOST THREEFOLD.

The track record is one of the best among long commodity investments.

It combines outperformance with reduced risk and beats the most widely used benchmarks by a considerable margin.

The Index was calculated by German Stock Exchange (Deutsche Börse).

Investment Guidelines:

Active commodity investments are a better way to benefit from the global commodities market performance. They permit to actively steer the investment:

- Long Only
- Equal weighting of the selected commodity futures
- Upper limit per commodity: 20% of invested capital
- Weekly portfolio review
- Weekly rebalancing
- Capital protection has highest priority – possibility to reduce the proportion of invested commodity futures up to 0%
- Conservative: no leverage of investment above 100% (zero leverage)

Alpha of STAY-C

- Protection of the invested capital during commodity market declines by variable degree of investment
- Quick response to market trends
- Optimal, equal weighting in the portfolio
- Optimal set of rules for weighting
- Active selection of commodities futures by potential returns
- Use of the forward curve
- No procyclical overweighting of commodities that were expensive in previous years

STAY-C Strategy Implementation

Typically, excess return swaps are used to transfer the participation in the performance of the STAY-C Strategy into the portfolio of the investor or a fund. The basis portfolio can consist of short-term prime government bonds (or metals bonds if crises or a spike in inflation is expected).

Strategy Variations

If the investor wants to be always invested in the commodity market, the STAY-C strategy can be combined with another strategy based on seasonal patterns in which Seasonax Capital is specialized in as well.
